The printers make sad work of the Hawaiian Arrival of Clipper Ship "Mindoro."

Thirteen Days Later from San Francisco.

Sixt een Days Later Telegrahic.

Gold, Sept. 2, 145.

By the arrival of the clipper ship Mindoro, on the 22d, 17 days from San Francisco, we have DAILY EXPECTED per CAMBRIDGE | full files of papers to the 5th of September.

The Whistler, of the Regular Dispatch Line, would sail on the 6th September. The Smyrniote, of the Hawaiian Packet Line, hence, had not arrived, 20 days out. NEW YORK, August 21 .- The Richmond correspondent of the Tribune says, that the recent action of the Government in ignoring the election is having a salutary effect. It is estimated that there are forty thousand negroes on the peninsula, who followed our armies during the war. Orders have been issued to muster out seven more regiments, and it is intimated that only enough military force has been kept in the State to prevent vagrancy. The Christian Commission agency has been broken up.

The Matamoras correspondent of the Tribune states that it is reported that Gen. Dablado is on his march north with from 6,000 to 10,000 men. It is reported that in conversation, Minister Rollay stated that if trouble occurred with the United States, the French would throw 50,000 men on the Rio Grande. New York, August 29 .- A Washington special dispatch to the Times says that the Postmaster General has accepted the tender of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, Allen McLane, President, for the mail steamships between San Francisco and China, via Honolulu, S. I., as authorized by act of Congress, approved February 12th, 1865. The ten-der of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company was the only one received for the service. The compensation therefor is half a million of dollars per annum for the performance of twelve round trips between San Francisco and Hongkong, touching at Honolulu and Kanagawa. The company are to build for the service four first-class American sidewheel steamers, of from 3,500 to 4,000 tons burthen each, Government measure, to be constructed of the best materials and after the most approved model, with all the modern improvements adopted by sea-going steamers of the first class. The first steamer is to leave San Francisco with the mails for Japan and China on or before January, 1867. The term of contract is to be ten years from the date of the sailing of the first steamer from that port. NEW YORK, August 81 .- The Herald's Richmond correspondent says the people of that city on Tuesday called the Union meeting for which they had been for some time previous making extensive preparations. All the speakers were men who six months ago were prominent supporters of Jeff Davis. The resolutions adopted express indignation at the imputation on the part of the Northern people and journals, that recanting secessionists are not sincere in taking the oath of allegiance. Pronounce such imputations utterly groundless and false; profess the warmest attachment to the National Government; acquiesce in the result of the war, including the abolition of slavery. New York, September 1.—The Herald's special dispatch says Wertz placed in the hands of his counsel, yesterday, documentary evidence to prove that in establishing the dead line at Andersonville he acted under orders of General Winder, and Sedden, the rebel Secretary of War. The records of the Andersonville Prison are missing, and it is believed to be for the purpose of preventing their being used against Wertz. The Clerk in the Quartermaster's Department, in whose bands they were last seen, has been placed under arrest.

New York, September 1 .- The last mail from England brings a report, from good authority, that the Great Eastern will be at once dispatched from Sheerness to Newfoundland. The object of this trip is to fish up any fragments of the dissevered cable which, it is hoped, will be recovered by means of grapples and buoys. The promoters of this enterprise in England are determined to lay another cable next year, making use of the recovered portions of the old one.

New York, September 1st .- The Times' special despatch says both the President and Secretary of War are decidedly in favor of a trial before a civil Court, and at the earliest practicable moment, of Jeff. Davis. The chief difficulty has been to find the proper tribunal. The President looks with favor on Knoxville, Tenn., where Davis committed an overt act of treason by inciting insurrection, in a speech to the army. In case he is tried by Chief Justice Chase, Norfolk, Va., will be selected. This is what Davis' friends desire.

It may be further said whenever the trial takes place, that Benjamin Butler, in conjunction with the Attorney General, will take a prominent part as the public prosecutor. The whole matter has been under consideration at a recent Cabinet meeting where the question of the mode and place was as far decided as to render the trial an event near at hand.

PHILADELPHIA, August 31 .- The U. S. sloop-ofwar Dacotah arrived at the navy yard this morning from Cayenne via St. Thomas. The Dacotah left Boston to join the Pacific squadron, but at Cayenne her engine was disabled, rendering her return neces-

FORTRESS MONBOE, August 21 .- Jeff. Davis has been attacked with erysipelas a second time since his imprisonment. The first attack was very slight but this one is more severe, although not looked upon as serious. The health of Mr. Clay is improving.

The bridge recently constructed for the Northwestern railway across the Mississippi river at Clinton, Iowa, is over three-fifths of a mile long. The draw part is 800 feet in length, is built of iron, and weighs about 825 tons. It turns on a pivot in the center, and when open leaves two clear passage ways for steamboats, each 428 feet in width.

Victor Hugo writes : " The thunderbolt which has broken on Washington has startled the world. Darknesses of this kind occur in history. After the dawn the night. But the American people is a colossus of bronze. Traitors can stratch it, but they know not how to destroy it. If liberty should fall in America, there would be a shipwreck in humanity. Frightful

Professor Mahan, of West Point, denies, in an article of some length, that West Point has been a disloyal institution, and shows that when the war broke out 820 graduates were living, of whom only 197 joined the rebels. There were 133 graduates from the South who remained loyal and 19 Northern graduates were disloyal.

Charles A. Dana, one of the most brilliant and judicious editors in the country, and formerly of the New York Tribune, is to be the head Governor of Yates' new paper, the Chicago Republican, at a yearly salary of $10,000. The new paper starts with a capital of two hundred thousand dollars. A Connecticut farmer says the vegetation of small to the scathing denunciation of traitors and assassins, got up and left the church. Just as he got to the door, the minister called out to him, "Don't stop, brother, till you get to Canada," which was responded to by a hearty amen from the whole congregation. It is stated in the Sunderland Scotland Herald, that the toad lately found by some quarryman at Hartepool, and announced to be six thousand years old is not a myth. The Rev. Robert Taylor, of St. Hilda's Parsonage, states that the toad is still alive, that it has no mouth, that it was found in the center of a block of magnesian limestone, twenty-five feet below the surface of the earth, and that it differs in many respects from all ordinary toads. The late conflagration in Richmend developed a curious incident and fact, which may be valuable, if remembered. Some week or ten days after the fire, the iron safe of the Enquirer office was opened, when immediately on the admission of the air, the books and papers were ignited and consumed. And such was the case of all other safes which were not in brick vaults. In these the contents were uninjured. The Enquirer safe, at the time it was reopened, was cold externally to the touch. Schamyl, who expected that the Russians would put him to death on his surrender, is now comfortably settled at Kalouga, with a pension of 12,000 roubles a year from the Russian Government, his wives and family having soon after followed him from evening, Gen. Sherman, said : "It was here in this city, in this very hotel, through which I passed to reach this spot, that Gen. Grant and myself met over a year since; and in that very room we laid down the maps and studied out the campaigns which ended this war. I had been away down in Mississippi attending to a little matter there, and when Gen. Grant and myself ended our conference here, we separated, he to go to Richmond and I to Atlanta, and the result has been just as we planned it here in 1864."

Southern planters propose to let out their planta-tions in small lots to anybody, black or white, taking a percentage of the crops for rent. While the crowd were pressing forward to shake hands with General Sheridan at a railroad depot on a recent occasion, the General observed a small boy making tremendous exertions to reach him. The crowd was so dense that the little fellow did not make much progress, so the General stepped off the car into the crowd, and making his way to the boy, held out his hand, saying with a smile, "come on, Young America." The boy grappled the hand he sought for, and seemed to quiver with delight at the fact of Sheridan's conferring upon him such a marked distinction. An American gentleman having seated himself in a London omnibus, saw and heard what a little amused him. A man, bearing no peculiar marks of authority, looked in at the door, took a professional view of the passengers, and called out to the driver, without any pretense at modest concealment of his thoughts, "You can't go on, there's two of the swellmob in here." The coach waited, till at length a pursy, well-looking old man, rose and stepped out, saying, as he did so. "I've too much money to ride with pickpockets." In a moment more a spruce young person said as he decamped, "I'll follow that old man's lead." "Go on now," said the detective policeman, "the swells have got out and all's right."

"THE TRUE METAL -In his oration at Marysville, Cal., on the Fourth of July last, Rev. Horatio Stebbins said : "The man who does not stand up fairly under the protection of a common government, and say to all men, live and let live; do the best with your own powers, and ally yourselves by all intelligence and virtue to the interest of human society, and the common destiny; the man who does not say that, and pronounce it in the wide open sky of a tolerant nature, is guilty of treason and secession from mankind. He is guilty of the same crime against human nature that the State Rights men have committed against the country." The following impressive thought is taken from one of the recent utterances of Rev. Dr. Bushnell, of Hartford, Connecticut. He is speaking of the majesty and strength of the United States Government :

"We did not know how strong it was before. Nobody had any conception of the immense strain it could bear. How bright is the future now of such a Government and nation! Hallowed by so many battle-fields, and these by the tribute of so many histories, and sung by so many songs of the great poets of the future, how dear, and sacred and glorious it will be! And God be thanked, it was our privilege to live in this great day of crisis, this always to be called heroic age of the republic.

"Miles O'Reilly" (Charles G. Halpine,) has taken the editorial charge of the New York Citizen, and promises to make it a good paper. He relates an anecdore of Mr. Lincoln's to illustrate his position. The President had been attacked by the Committee on the Conduct of the War for the failure of a certain expedition in the Southwest. An officer acquainted with the facts offered to set him right before the public, "Oh, no," replied the President, "at least not now. If I were to learn to read, much less answer, all the attacks made on me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the very best I know how, the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me out of the Constitution of the State, thus admitting | won't amount to anything. If the end brings me men of all colors to the right of suffrage if otherwise | out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would

The Claremont (N. H.) Advocate says a lady in Unity not long since became the mother of a fine daughter. A few days after, a Copperhead neighbor happening in, said to the mother, "Well, I suppose you'll call it Abe Lincoln." "No," she replied, "I'm sorry I can't. Like your friend Jeff, it will wear petticoats !" Copperhead vamosed.

An honest, but too talkstive Republican member of the Connecticut Legislature, when the resolutions came up endorsing the policy of President Johnson. avowed that he was in a quandary. He could not endorse the President. He thought it a "suspicious" circumstance that the Democratic presses approved of Mr. Johnson's course, and he said, " Either they are coming to us, or we are going to them !" His party had either found a cart or lost a horse, he did not know which, and he was a-going to wait and

An anvil block weighing one hundred and sixty tons has been cast at the Midland Works, Sheffield, England. The enormous cast was six weeks in cooling. The mould was dug out in the centre of the workshop and the molten iron was run into it from five furnaces at once, the filling occupying twelve hours. The anvil, when finished, has to receive the blows of a twenty five ton Nasymyth ham-

It came out in a case before an English police court that a practice exists among beggars to keep their children from growing, by feeding them with gin, so as to ensure always having a baby to attract compassion. In the case before the court, a child four years old was stunted so as not to appear more than twelve months old.

A NEW ADVOCATE OF NEGRO SUFFRAGE.-It will surprise most people to know that the New York News, the chief pro-Southern organ in the loyal States, has begun to express itself in favor of negro suffrage. It says that in the earliest days of the Republic many Southern statesmen were inclined to give the ballot to the negro, and now it says it could mention more than fifty leading men in the Southern States who seriously consider this the day and hour when the preservation and stability of Southern interests impel them to return on this sub-ject to the ancient policy of early Southern states-men." The main idea seems to be that it is only by admitting the negroes to vote that the South can turn its increased political power to the best account. The following reasoning on this topic is ingenious:

"The exact legal and political position of the slave in this country has not always been clearly appreciated. An eminent writer well defines him to be 'a person who is related to society through another person, called a master, to whom he owes due service or labor, and from whom he is entitled to receive support and protection.' Nothing stood between the slave and full citizenship but this invol-untary service; that impediment is gone, through the actual operation of the war, and the liberated black stands himself, a citizen in his own proper person, and not through the relation of another called a master.' Then if the abstract right to vote inheres in every citizen, why not in the native black man? What rule of law denies him that right? Is it not his absolute personal right, now that he is liberated? And if it is his, who shall take it from him, or who shall come between him and the State of which he is a citizen? It, as all other civic rights, may be forfeited by an absolute crime. But this is common to all citizens.'

THE FRENCH EMPEROR'S UNHAPPY MEXICAN VEN-TURE —The London Times is out with a demonstra tion of the political and financial blunder committed by the astute French Emperor in Mexico. It says : In spite of the wealth of Mexican mines and the resources of the country, the capitalists of Europe are resolute in their distrust of an empire which rests on foreign bayonets. No tribute to the power of the Emperor Napoleon can be greater than that involved in the fact that his subjects are willing to trust him in the conduct of a policy against the prudence of which every one of them singly rebels. The maintenance of the Latin race in Central America as a check to the encroaching Anglo-Saxon is a grand idea, but it does not seem to be successful even when the Anglo-Saxon is too busy to interfere with it.

The Emperor has had it all his own way in Mexico. and what has been the result! He has placed an Austrian prince on a trans-Atlantic throne, and has given him a Papal difficulty, the solution of which is as obscure as the reconciliation of the convention with the maintenance of the temporal power of the Pope. He has made the Emperor Maximilian lord of a bankrupt exchequer, the demands on which are great and the supplies limited. The new potentate is maintained in power by a foreign army, which is continually engaged in putting down insurgents who are dispersed in one place only to reappear in another. And there is now a prospect of a new difficulty in the recovered leisure of the neighbor whose restless activity was a principal motive for the establishment of the Mexican empire. It is not surprising that all the intellect of France should chafe at a situation which is absolutely inglorious, and is not free from danger. Every one is restless and uneasy, and looks to the supreme head of affairs in hope that some effort will be made to retire from a position so unpromising while it is yet possible. The Emperor Napoleon must himself be conscious of the deep distrust with which his faithful subjects watch the issue of the Mexican intervention, and would perhaps be not unwilling on his own account to consult their wishes, if, at the same time he could preserve his honor undimmed. But the necessary correlative of unchecked power is undivided responsibility, and the resolute brain which first conceived the possibility of establishing a dependent empire in the West, must devise for itself the means SUFFRAGE FACTS .- A Committee of the Executive Board of the Central Union Club of Brooklyn, having been appointed to consider the whole subject of reconstruction, report that they have come to the conclusion that " all the colored people of the seven disorganized States have a right to vote, which cannot be taken away from them by any power short of a State Convention elected by the whole people of each State." In support of this ground, they submit the following important facts:

"1. The case of Georgia is a peculiar one, and one which admits of no doubt. The Constitution of that of escaping from the consequences of its own errors."

State prescribes no qualification for electors, except that they must be 'citizens and inhabitants' of the State, of the age of twenty-one years, and must have paid all taxes 'required of them.' The word 'white' nowhere occurs in the Constitution in connection with the right of suffrage. We quote from an edition pre-pared under the direction of the State by Howell Cobb in 1859. The authority will, we trust, be deemed satisfactory, although the character of Mr. Cobb, as a man of honor, has deteriorated since that

2. The Constitutions of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia contain no provision in respect to the right of suffrage, except with regard to elections for the Legislature and Governor; South Carolina none as to the Governor, he not being chosen by the people. There is nothing said in these Constitu-tions about the right of suffrage for local offices, that being regulated by statutes.

3. The Constitutions of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas prescribe that 'every free white male,' &c., &c., 'shall be deemed a qualified elector' -the Constitution of Florida adding: 'at all elections under this constitution.' These Constitutions declare that, the Governor and Legislature shall be chosen ' by the qualified electors,' but they every one declare, by a marked and important contrast, that the people (not the qualified electors only) have at all times an inalienable right to alter or abolish their form of government in such manner as they may deem expedient.'
